About the Book

This book with the title 'Postcolonial literatures in English' serves as a gateway to diverse cultural narratives emerging from Africa, Australia, Canada, New Zealand, the South Pacific, and the Caribbean. The chosen works, spanning prose, poetry, drama, and short stories, showcase the nuanced expressions of postcolonial identities and struggles. From Ngugi wa Thiong'o's insightful critique of linguistic politics to Derek Walcott's poignant verses on Caribbean heritage, the anthology invites readers to navigate the intricate tapestry of postcolonial experiences.
